

EXHIBITION PROGRAM 2022

LOGAN ART GALLERY

Welcome to Logan Art Gallery

Discover ever-changing exhibitions at our award winning Logan Art Gallery. The gallery showcases artworks by local artists of all nationalities including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and culturally diverse artists, as well as major touring exhibitions.

Exhibitions and displays are changed every 6 to 7 weeks, so there is always something new to explore. On opening nights, you can meet with exhibiting artists and hear artist talks.

We run free practical art workshops relating to the exhibition program. Children can have fun in the Young Peoples Gallery where there are interactive activities.

At Logan Art Gallery, the well-being of the community is our highest priority. The gallery is open to the public with physical distancing and hand hygiene requirements in place.

Altered states

MIGALOO PRESS ARTIST COLLECTIVE

Altered states is a print collaboration between members of Migaloo Press Artist Collective in Queensland and members of Firestation Print Studio in Victoria. Each artist makes an edition of 2 prints. One print remains unaltered, while the second print is sent to the other studio for one of their members to add to the original, creating a new print.

Stitched together

SOUTHSIDE UPCYCLING STITCHERS COLLECTIVE

Stitched together will showcase recent outcomes from the Southside Upcycling Stitchers Collective. The collective of local artists and makers use fabric waste, donated clothing and sewing to upcycle and transform garments. For collective members, the clothing becomes a canvas for hand stitched detail, using all kinds of threads. Members have also created earrings, necklaces and brooches from fabric and wool scraps using recycled material.

Escaping stress

OLIVER MURDOCH

For this exhibition young Boronia Heights artist, Oliver Murdoch, presents illustrations of his own super-hero characters. 'As a person with diagnosed autism, anxiety disorder and OCD (Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder) I have found the last year to be really hard. Drawing the things that I worry about helps me to visualise what I fear and to recognise that these fears might not be as bad as I think'.

Family ties

JESSICA SKEEN-MCKINNON (MURALAPPI)

Greenbank First Nations artist, Jessica Skeen-McKinnon (Widi, Biri, and Kuku Thaypan), has curated a group exhibition of works by her family members. Many Skeen family members are also artists and craftspeople having learnt skills from their renowned artist father, Joseph Skeen. The exhibition features new paintings, photography and wood craft and will focus on how Aboriginal culture and knowledge is passed down through family connections.

Hidden in the folds

CHRYZ ZANTIS

Hidden in the folds is a solo exhibition by Springwood artist Chrys Zantis, which explores various aspects of brain function. Chrys combines design, textiles and photography to explore the connection – and sometimes disconnection – between the brain's internal and external worlds. This body of work follows from an Artist-in-residency with the Cognitive Neuroscience and Computational Psychiatric Laboratory at Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences at Melbourne University.
